Critical chain project management (CCPM) is a method of planning and managing projects that emphasizes the resources (people, equipment, physical space) required to execute project tasks. It was developed by Eliyahu M. Goldratt. It differs from more traditional methods that derive from critical path and PERT algorithms, which emphasize task order and rigid scheduling.

Main Text Introduction. Until recently, the market for lithium-ion batteries (LIBs) was driven by their use in portable electronics. A shift in demand to include larger form factor batteries, primarily for electric vehicles (EVs) (and stationary storage), catalyzed new supply chain dynamics for the materials used to make LIBs.

The critical path method (CPM), or critical path analysis (CPA), is an algorithm for scheduling a set of project activities. It is commonly used in conjunction with the program evaluation and review technique (PERT). A critical path is determined by identifying the longest stretch of dependent activities and measuring the time required to complete them from start to finish.
